4/1 - "The Lord of the Storm": Lesson: You can't live on past experiences. Faith is somewhat fragile and must be exercised to be of any good.

5/3 - "The Rich Life": Look Busy Jesus is coming back! - Remember Jesus wasn't a workaholic; you don't have to be one either!

9/2 - "A Cross Shaped Life": The measurement of the ambition to be great before men is always: "How many serve me? How much power do I exercise over others? How wide is the extent of my influence? How far has knowledge about me traveled?" Who of us has not suffered many times this desire to be known, to be admired, to be considered important and great in the eyes of men? But Jesus points out that true greatness is never found there. The measure of true greatness is: "How many do I serve? How many am I willing to minister to? How can I use what I have to serve others?" This is the mark of greatness in the eyes of God. - Ray Stedman www.raystedman.org/new-testament/mark/the-child-in-our-midst

9/9 "The Rich Young Ruler": False Assumption #3: I can trust Jesus with only part of my life and still be completely right with God.

10/7 "Who is your Authority?": All authority is either of God or men; there are no other authorities. We are either trying to please God and obey him, being responsive to truth that he reveals, and responsible to his power; or we are trying to please men, to manipulate them and use them, or to gain something from them. - Ray Stedman www.raystedman.org/new-testament/mark/by-what-authority

10/7 "The God Who Is Watching":

Those who present to God a few moments worship in church once a week while ignoring God in the rest of life – at work, at home, at play – have a half-hearted love for God. Those who try to straddle the fence by allotting God only token love while maintaining a bosom friendship with the world are doomed to be frustrated in this world and doomed in the world to come.

8/26 - "Choosing to Win, Not Just Participate":

Three Keys-

#1 It Takes DESIRE.

#2 It Takes DIRECTION
